Landscape

Plants serve many purposes beyond providing beauty, color, texture and fragrance. They also convey meaning. In many ways, natural materials are living sculptures, three-dimensional poetry. Plant materials are selected to respond to, and emphasize, their setting and season.

Bamboo, Grasses, and Seasonal Flowers Create Texture

Furniture

Street furniture provides an opportunity to expand the sensory experience of streets.

Lighting is Festive and Celebratory

Wood is Prevalent in Seating

Other Elements are Simple and Elegant

Paving

Paving expresses a continuation and expansion of the living landscape. In a sense, it forms the 'skin' of the street. Richly detailed armored patterns are appropriate.
